Bleeding Heart owns the acclaimed New Zealand vineyard Trinity Hill in Hawkes Bay, on the east coast of the North Island, in partnership with top New Zealand winemaker John Hancock. Named as one of New Zealand's Top 10 wineries in Decanter Magazine earlier this year, Trinity Hill has gained a worldwide reputation for its wines, especially the reds from its Gimblett Gravels estate. Five of our wines have gained more than 90 points in Robert Parker's seminal Wine Advocate Magazine: the Homage Syrah was the first New Zealand red to win a stunning 95 points. As well as these single estate Gimblett Gravels Wines, we also have our great value Hawkes Bay range- easy drinking at very easy prices.

The Gimblett

"The Gimblett" 2013 is traditionally made from a blend of five grape varieties. The Cabernet family gives structure and fresh aromatics. Merlot gives richness and mid-palate weight with Petit Verdot and Malbec helping with complexity, density and colour.

The result is a wine with beautiful aromatics that include ripe blackberry, fresh blackcurrant and dried herbs. Structurally the wine is complex, powerful and food-friendly when young. This structure will allow the development of further complexity over the next 10 years. Try with red meat and game dishes

Gimblett Gravel Syrah

The 2013 Syrah has a deep and youthful vibrant crimson colour. Wild raspberry, blackberry, cracked pepper and clove aromas predominate.

Powerful and balanced ripe tannins give the wine great structure. Oak plays a supporting role with the wine living on a pure fruit expression. This purity combined with refreshing natural acidity mean there is excellent potential for aging. Development of mineral, gamey characters will result from bottle-age.

Great with red meat dishes but especially good with game, particularly with duck and venison.

Gimblett Gravel Tempranillo

Tempranillo is a red grape variety grown in many parts of Spain. It is perhaps best known in the making of the famous wines of Rioja. The wine shows attractive brambly, blackberry-like ripe fruits along with spicy and exotic complexity. The palate is rich and textural with salivating soft tannins. Licorice, chocolate and sarsaparilla flavours linger on the finish. This wine will age extremely well for at least five years but equally can be drunk in its youth. Red meat or pork would be an ideal match along with traditional Tapas-style dishes.

Homage Syrah

2010 Homage could well prove to be the strongest wine of the past decade. Comparisons can be made with the stellar 2002 and 2006 Vintages. 2010 produced a wine that is very powerful and still elegant and fragrant. A very dense purple colour leads to elements of complex red fruits on the nose. Blackberry and cassis meld with secondary notes of licorice, black pepper and spice.

The wine shows great concentration and weight with a very crucial elegance. The structure is tight and tense which will allow the wine to age gracefully for many years (10+). Enjoy this wine with lamb or game.
